vinetur

Grand Siècle Nº26 receives acclaim from leading wine critics

Suckling, Robinson, and Decanter offer high praise

Wednesday, October 4, 2023

The realm of champagne, ever competitive and filled with rich history, has always been a subject of interest among wine enthusiasts worldwide. Among its entrants, Grand Siècle Nº26 stands out, now earning global acclaim, especially from revered critics

James Suckling, Jancis Robinson, and the esteemed publication, Decanter.

James Suckling, known for his discerning palate, awarded the champagne an impressive score of 100 out of 100. Suckling described the champagne as electrifying on the palate, with a series of complex aromas that remain subtly present. It boasts a medium body but stands out due to its freshness and balance. This champagne, according to him, is not only flavorful but also exudes an energetic aura, making it both spectacular and captivating to its drinkers.

Jancis Robinson, another influential figure in the wine industry, was not far behind in her praise, granting it a score of 19.5 out of 20. Robinson was particularly impressed with the powerful aroma reminiscent of orange peel, supplemented by chalk-like notes. While dense in flavor concentration, the champagne excels in its delicate texture. The citrus character dominates, leaving a tingling sensation on the palate that lingers for minutes, not mere seconds. Robinson emphasized the exceptional finesse of Grand Siècle Nº26, referring to the tasting experience as profoundly pleasurable.

Lastly, Decanter, a publication that has long set standards in wine reviews, gave it a commendable score of 96 out of 100. The editors highlighted that this particular iteration of Grand Siècle consists predominantly of two of the finest recent vintages from Champagne, naturally setting expectations high. The champagne meets these expectations with its anticipated delicacy and impeccable structure, crowned with an elegant and silky foam. The publication also notes the potential benefits of prolonged bottle aging.

Grand Siècle Nº26 has undeniably positioned itself as one of the most highly regarded champagnes on the global stage. Its outstanding characteristics, coupled with the endorsements from renowned critics, secure its place in the annals of champagne greatness.