Muscats du Monde Announces Largest Competition Yet

Record number of wines and countries to participate in 25th anniversary event.

Wednesday, June 11, 2025

The 25th edition of the international Muscat wine competition, Muscats du Monde, will occur on July 9th and 10th, in France. This year's competition boasts the largest and most diverse collection of Muscat wines to date.

Over 230 Muscat wines from 24 countries will be judged by a panel of 100 international wine experts. This represents a significant increase in both the number of participating countries and the wines submitted.

The competition provides a unique opportunity for winemakers to showcase their Muscat wines on a global stage. The judging panel, comprised of sommeliers, wine writers, and other industry professionals, will evaluate the wines based on a blind tasting process.

The deadline for winemakers to submit their Muscat wines for consideration is June 19th. Given the proximity of the deadline, interested producers are encouraged to submit their entries promptly.

The Muscats du Monde competition has become a benchmark for quality in the world of Muscat wines. The competition's rigorous judging process and international scope ensure that the winning wines represent the very best examples of the Muscat grape.

For wine enthusiasts, the competition offers a chance to discover new and exciting Muscat wines from around the world. The results of the competition will be published online and will serve as a valuable guide for consumers seeking high-quality Muscat wines.

More information about the competition, including registration details and previous winners, can be found on the official website: www.muscats-du-monde.com. The organizers anticipate another successful year, celebrating the diversity and excellence of Muscat wines from across the globe. The competition continues to grow in prestige, reflecting the increasing popularity of Muscat wines among consumers and wine professionals alike.
