Founder Nicholas Hammeken Returns as CEO Amid Global Expansion at Hammeken Cellars

Leadership transition aims for seamless continuity as Spanish wine group strengthens international presence and reaffirms commitment to partners

Wednesday, March 18, 2026

Hammeken Cellars, a Spanish wine group based in Dénia, Alicante, has announced a planned leadership transition. The company informed customers, partners, and collaborators that Sailé Ramírez is concluding her tenure with the Hammeken Group. Ramírez played a significant role in the company’s recent evolution and expansion. The group expressed gratitude for her dedication and contributions during her time as CEO.

Nicholas Hammeken, the founder of Hammeken Cellars and its current Innovation Director, will take over as CEO. The company stated that Hammeken’s vision and experience will guide the next phase of the business. According to the announcement, this transition is part of a planned process to ensure continuity across all operations, teams, and ongoing projects.

Hammeken Cellars emphasized its ongoing commitment to quality, service, and long-term relationships with its network of customers, partners, and collaborators. The company reassured stakeholders that there would be no disruption to business activities during this change in leadership.

Founded by Nicholas Hammeken, the group has built a reputation for innovation in Spanish wine production and international distribution. The leadership change comes at a time when the company continues to expand its presence in global markets. Hammeken Cellars invited stakeholders to reach out with any questions regarding the transition.

The announcement was made from the company’s headquarters in Dénia, Alicante. The group reiterated its appreciation for the trust and collaboration of its partners as it enters this new chapter under Nicholas Hammeken’s leadership.
